A2iA Named to ECM Connection's 'Top 10 of 2011'

Annual list details the most impactful technologies and articles of the past year.

NEW YORK – January 10, 2012 – A2iA (@A2iA), the worldwide leading developer of document analysis and data extraction technology for unstructured and handwritten contents, announced that it has been included on ECM Connection's 'Top 10 of 2011' list in two categories – A2iA's article, "Making History Actionable: Historic Document / Archive Conversion" has been included in the "Top 10 Downloads of 2011" list, and A2iA FieldReader™ Custom Module for Kofax Capture has been named to the list of "Featured Products and Services."

"This is an annual review of the year's most popular content featured in the ECM Connection newsletter and serves as a helpful overview of where we are in the ECM industry," said Vicki Amendola, ECM Connection Editor-in-Chief. "By highlighting the most impactful news, technologies, discussions, and events of the past year, we can pinpoint trends in the industry to better prepare you for 2012 and beyond."

Available in 23-country versions and 6-languages, and trusted worldwide to process hundreds-of-millions of documents each year, A2iA's software is deployed throughout a multitude of industries, including banking / finance, healthcare, insurance, government, and service bureaus / business process outsourcing firms. Proven to make unstructured, complex data searchable and reportable, A2iA reduces operating costs and manual document processing, even with reduced resources.

With over 30,000 registered subscribers, ECM Connection's 'Top Ten' lists are published annually and are selected by their readers based on tallying the most-clicked content from the past year. For more information on ECM Connection visit www.ECMConnection.com.

A2iA's featured article and product information can be found on the company's website at www.A2iA.com.
